Databases and ebook collections

2012-2013
Classiques Garnier Digital offers academic libraries, public and research centres access to databases in the fields of literature, the humanities and the social sciences. Teachers, academics, researchers, students, pupils and enthusiasts thus have at their disposal tens of thousands of reference works in text mode, easily searchable at simple or advanced levels thanks to a full data mark-up and a powerful search engine.

On our website you will find a detailed explanation of our editorial work and how we produce the databases, as well as additional information and documents. We warmly invite you to make a visit.
SUMMARY

LITERATURE, ART AND HISTORY

Corpus of Medieval Literature from Its Origins to the End of the Fifteenth Century 6
Corpus of Narrative Literature from the Middle Ages to the Twentieth Century 8
Corpus of Early French-Speaking Sub-Saharan African Literature, Written and Oral from Its Origins to Independence (End of the 18th Century-1960) 9
Corpus of Early Speaking Literature From the Indian Ocean, Written and Oral, from the Origins to Independence (18th Century-1960) 10
Great Corpus of French and French-Speaking Literatures from the Middle Ages to the twentieth Century 11
The French Library 12
Corpus of Montaigne’s Works FORTHCOMING 13
Corpus of Bayle’s Works NEW 14
Patrologia Graeco-Latina 15

GRAMMARS, DICTIONARIES AND ENCYCLOPEDIAE

Corpus of French Renaissance Grammars 16
Corpus of French seventeenth Century Grammars 17
Corpus of Remarks on the French Language (17th Century) 18
Great Corpus of French Language Grammars, Commentaries and Treatises on Language (14th-17th Centuries) 19
Frédéric Godefroy, Dictionary of Old French and All Its Dialects from the ninth to the fifteenth Centuries 20
La Curne De Sainte-Palaye, Historical Dictionary of Old French Language from Its Origin to the Reign of Louis XIV 21
Edmond Huguet, Dictionary of the French Language of the sixteenth Century 22
Dictionaries of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries 23
Corpus of Dictionaries of the French Academy from the seventeenth to the twentieth Century 24
Great Corpus of Dictionaries of the French Language, from the ninth to the twentieth Century 25
Encyclopedia of Human Knowledge (Yverdon’s Encyclopedia) 26
Pierre Larousse, The Great Universal Dictionary of the nineteenth Century 27

CLASSIQUES GARNIER BACKLIST - EBOOK COLLECTIONS 29
EDITORIAL PRINCIPLES

The works published by Classiques Garnier Digital satisfy the three criteria of 'numerical philology' defined by Claude Blum, professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne.

The notion of Corpus. The edition of a text in electronic form assumes its full significance only if it is considered as part of a coherent and complete set aiming to be complete (the complete works of a given author, of a period in time, of a literary genre, etc.).

The electronic edition of a work, for example, will be constituted by the set of all the original editions of that work published during the author's lifetime (the electronic edition of Montaigne’s Essays, for example, will thus include all the editions published during the author’s lifetime: 1580, 1582, 1587, 1588 and the edition of the manuscript prepared by Montaigne shortly before his death, the so-called 'Bordeaux copy'). If, for reasons of physical impossibility, completeness is unattainable and a selection has to be made among editions published during the author’s lifetime, then we will choose the last edition considered to represent a state of the text corresponding to the author's intention. In the absence of an edition in the author's lifetime, we will choose the first posthumous edition. This basic principle may be adapted by the Publishing committee, which may choose, for scholarly reasons, an edition other than the last in the author's lifetime or the first posthumous edition. It is always deemed better to edit the complete set of editions published during the author’s lifetime and/or posthumous editions, as has been done for the works of Montaigne.

Exact identical reproduction of works, from every aspect. The electronic editor will refrain from any judgement, selection or destruction of data provided by the original work. All signs are regarded as being integral parts of the work and as being significant within that context. The electronic edition, being an edition of our historical heritage, will be constituted according to the rules of 'diplomatic editing', with scrupulous respect for the original.

In 'numerical philology', the original pagination, for example, is respected, a page of the reference edition corresponding to a screen-pag; all the pages, including blank pages, are maintained and numbered. The same goes for all the data on the page, collating zones, typeface (large and small capitals, for example), written forms, spelling (typos will be corrected in order to facilitate electronic searches, but will be indicated in critical notes). This choice of the original pagination is not a light one, since it implies the existence of heavy tagging, i.e. the existence of a record of each page – and not only of parts and chapters of the work as can be found in most electronic editions (since the latter exclude any research based on information as to the original pagination, which is the basis of all research in the academic field).

The electronic edition in text-mode will be associated, by means of a hypertextual link, page by page, to the facsimile edition of the original text (image mode) so that, by a click, the reader can refer back to the visual aspect of the original (this method is now being extended to all our databases).

SEARCH FUNCTIONS

The tagging of Classiques Garnier Digital databases allows specific searches on all the different parts of a given corpus of texts (pre-texts, texts, post-texts, parts, chapters, etc.), while operators allow the user to refine his/her search in full-text (search for structures, typographical searches, etc.). All search-fields can be combined thanks to dynamic indices which produce results in real time. For each search-field, the user has at his/her disposal, fully spelt out, the complete index corresponding to that field. The entire content of that field can thus be grasped and judgment can be made as to the reliability of the texts proposed.

RESEARCH SOFTWARE

Babel software offers the most efficient functions for searches and database consultation. Texts are presented a multi-window display allowing full access at any time to the work, the author, the edition, and to move from one text to another. Users can insert bookmarks, write personal notes, safeguard the history of their own research, print and save the contents of the database. Moreover, they can create a corpus using their own criteria and work on this selection alone.
The most extensive collection of medieval texts in text mode, in langue d'oïl from the origin to the end of the fifteenth century

Almost nine hundred complete works constitute this perfect first library for the Middle Ages, here defined as the period from the ninth to the fifteenth century. The four literary fields concerned and specific to that period are: narrative prose fiction, chanson de geste, poetry and theatre (religious and profane). The editions chosen for the Corpus of Medieval Literature are, following Classiques Garnier Numérique’s principles of electronic editing, those of the best editors: Honoré Champion, Société des Anciens Textes Français, etc.

CONTENTS

I - NARRATIVE FICTION

Recueil général et complet des fabliaux des XIII et XIV siècles imprimés ou inédits

Choix de fabliaux

Eneas

Male Honte (Huon le Roi de Cambrai)

Vair Palefroi (Huon le Roi de Cambrai)

Le Roman de Tristan by Béroul

Les Deux poèmes de La Folte Tristan

Erocle, Ille et Galéron by Gautier d’Arras

Fabliaux by Jean Bodel

Lais, Fables, Le Livre de l’Espurgatoire S. Patriz by Marie de France

Lai d’Haveloc

Le Lay de l’espervier, Le Lay d’amours

Lai du Conseil

Pyrame et Thisbé

Donnei des amanz

Ancassin et Nicollette

Roman de Renart

Des Trois Avugles de Compigne by Cortebarbe

Le Roman de la Rose by Guillaume de Lorris et Jean de Meun

Le Roman de Tristan

La Continuation de Perceval by Gerbert de Montreuil

Le Lay de l’Ombre, Le Roman de la Rose ou de Guillaume de Dole by Jean Renart

Première Continuation de Perceval

La Chastelaine de Vergi (verse)

II - CHANSON DE GESTE

Chanson de Roland

Charroi de Nîmes

Alicans

La Chanson d’Apremont

Raoul de Cambrai

Huon de Bordeaux

Buervon de Conmarchis, Les Enfances Ogier, Berthe aux grands pieds by Adenet le Roi

Chanson d’Antioche

III - POETRY

Cantilène de sainte Eulalie

Passion de Clermont

Vie de saint Alexis

Die Lieder des Blondel de Nesle by Blondel de Nesle

Chansons attribuées au Chastelain de Couci

Chansons courtoises by Chrétien de Troyes

Gace Brulé trouvére champenois

Les Vers de la Mort by Hélinand de Froidmont

Li Congié by Jean Bodel

Fables by Marie de France

Il Canzoniere by Gontier de Soignies

Les Chansons by Conon de Béthune

Li Tornoiemenz Antecrit by Huon de Méry

Songe d’enfer by Raoul de Houdenc

Chasteau d’amour by Robert Grosseteste
Mariage des neuf filles du diable
Les Chansons by Thibaut de Champagne
Les Chansons by Colin Muset
Poesies completes by Philippe de Rémi
Œuvre lyrique by Richard de Fournival
Congés d’Arras, Chansons, Jeux-partis, rondeaux, motets by Adam de la Halle
Œuvre by Jean de Condé
La Desputeison de l’ame et du corps, La Bonté des femmes,
La Plaite d’Amour, Le Char d’Orgueil et la Lettre de l’empeuver Orgueil by Nicole Bozon
Le Pelerinage de vie humaine, Le Pelerinage de l’âme, Le Pelerinage Jhesucriest, Rovnate de la Fleur de lis by Guillaume de Digulleville
Poesies lyriques, Les Dits, Le Livre du Voir-dit by Guilaume de Machaut
L’Espinette amoureuse by Jean Froissart
Œuvres complétes by Eustache Deschamps
Œuvres poétiques by Christine de Pizan
Le Livre de l’Espérance by Alain Chartier
Poesies by Charles d’Orléans
Regnault et Jehaneton, Rondaux by René d’Anjou
Les Vers de maître Henri Baude
Le Debat de Cuidier et de Fortune, Le Chevalier délibéré, Le Triumphe des Dames, Complainsite sur la mort de Madame
Marie de Bourgoingne by Olivier de La Marche
Les Faïtz et Dixtz by Jean Molinet

IV - DRAMA

Religious theatre
La Seinte Resurreccion
Le Mystère d’Adam
Miracle de Théophile by Rutebeuf
Les Miracles de Notre Dame par personnages
La Passion des joujeurs

Le Livre de la Passion, poème narratif du xiv è siècle
Fragment d’un ancien mystère
La Passion d’Autan
La Passion provençale du manuscrit Didot
Le Mystère de la Passion by Arnoul Gréban
Le Mistère du Vieil Testament
Le Mistere de saint Quentin suivi des Invencions du corps de saint Quentin par Eusèbe et par Eloi by Jean Molinet

Profane theatre (plays, farce, serie, monologues, sermons)
Courtois d’Arras
Le Jeu de la Feuillée, Le Jeu de Robin et Marion, Le Jeu du Pelerin by Adam de la Halle
Trois Poèmes du xiii è sur Pierre de la Bruce
Ancien Théâtre françois
Le Théâtre français avant la Renaissance
Nouveu Recueil de farces français des xvi et xvi siècles
Choix de farces, sorties et moralités
Recueil de farces, moralités et sermons joyeux
Recueil de farces françaises inédites du xvi siècle
Trois Farces du Recueil de Londres
La Farce des théologastres
La Farce des trois commères
Farce inédite du xvi siècle
La Farce de Thévet le Maire, Peruche et Colin
Jeu a .III. personnaiges
Farce pour deux personnaiges, Lordeau et Tart Abille
La Farce du vilain et son fils Jacob
Fragment de manuscrits latins et français du Moyen Âge
Quelques textes du xvi siècle en patois fribourgeois
Fragment de moralités, farces et mystères
Fragment de farces, moralités, mystères etc.
Œuvres by Roger de Collerye

RESEARCH FIELDS
Literature, French-speaking, literary history, medieval history, old French, philology.

EDITOR
Published by Claude Blum, Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne
Narrative works: E. Gaucher (University of Lille III);
Poetry: D. Boutet (University of Paris X – Nanterre);
Drama: E. Lalou (Institut de Recherche sur l’Histoire des Textes).
The Corpus de la littérature narrative is an electronic library that gives institutions (colleges, universities, research centres) about one thousand narrative works, novels, tales and short stories taken from French culture. From Chrétien de Troyes to Alain-Fournier and Marcel Proust, The Corpus de la littérature narrative brings together the authors and works from the past eight centuries and offers a full range functions for the study of literary texts.

The Corpus can act as both a basic and specialist library which meets the needs of all French studies programmes from secondary education to university (ordinary and competitive examinations). Moreover, specialists and researchers will find texts with appropriate bibliographical references, edited according to the rules of scientific publishing.

TEXT

The text chosen for the electronic edition is the last version of the original work published during the author’s life and reviewed by him/her. If this text does not exist, the most reliable version of the text is chosen by a specialist (a posthumous edition, a manuscript).

EDITING LEVELS

The diplomatic edition: the published edition is the exact copy of the printed original.

The modern written form if necessary.

The translated edition for the medieval period.

RESEARCH FIELDS

Literature, French-speaking, literary history, medieval history, old French, philology.

EDITOR

Published by Claude Blum, University of Paris Sorbonne.

Middle Ages

D. Boutet, University of Paris X - Nanterre

E. Gaucher, University of Lille III

E. Lalou, Institut de Recherche sur l’Histoire des Textes

16th century

J.C. Arnould, University of Rouen

F. Roudaut, University of Montpellier III

17th century

A.-Cl. Philippay Cavlus

Conte de Moncrrif

Cyrano de Bergerac

Fénélon

Antoine Furetière

Antoine Galland

Gabriell Joseph de Lavigere Guilleragues

Jean de la Fontaine

Mme D’Aulnoy

Mme de La Fayette

Murat

Charles Perrault

Paul Scarron

Charles Sorel

Honoré d’Urfé

Abbé Prévost

Beaumarchais

Bernardin de Saint-Pierre

Cabinet des Fés

Jacques Cazotte

Robert Challe

Choderlos de Laclos

Crébillon (fils)

Denis Diderot

Bernard (Le Bovier de) Fontenelle

Alain-René Le Sage

Jean-Baptiste Louvet de Couvray

Mme de Lintot

Marivaux

Montesquieu

Restif de la Bretonne

J.-J. Rousseau

Voltaire

19th – 20th centuries

Alain-Fournier

Honoré de Balzac

Barbey d’Aurevilly

Chateaubriand

Constant

Daudet

Dumas

Erckmann-Chatrian

Flaubert

France

Fromentin

Gautier

Goncourt

Hugo

Huysmans

Loti

Maupassant

Mérimée

Musset

Nerva

Proust

Renard

Sand

Sénancour

Stendhal

Vallès

Verne

Villiers de l’Isle-Adam

Zola

Published with the support of the Ministry of National Education and the National Centre for Distance Learning (CNED)
This large-scale scholarly enterprise compiled all the French-speaking literature from Sub-Saharan Africa possible to collect. It encompasses both oral and written literature, from its origins to African Independence. The written literature brought together here comes either from widely circulated works or from publications with a local or temporary distribution. In the latter case, they were kept on short-lived media like periodicals, parish bulletins, school report books, etc.

The oral literature was recorded by monks, civil servants, soldiers, and French, foreign or local academics. It was preserved on various forms, in works as diverse as a report from a commanding office or an anthology assembled by a Parisian publisher. We also find this oral literature in dictionaries, grammars and in early nineteenth century manuals for teaching African languages. Educational works are wonderful stores for cultural heritage, both popular and scholarly. They also have the significant advantage of being bilingual. This is why a bilingual version is given for every French text that has a counterpart in an African language.

This Corpus, covering the entire French-speaking Sub-Saharan Africa, from Benin to Togo and representing about twenty countries and more than a hundred ethnic groups, was built up from a vast bibliographical search, followed by the collection and edition of the texts. It took Claude Blum some twenty years to carry out this work. It is both a scholarly database and a precious collection of Africa’s cultural heritage. The critical apparatus of the original edition – notes and comments – has been maintained in its entirety. No library or specialized research centre possesses more than ten percent of this collection. Its huge scope does justice to the importance of early French-speaking African literature, and brings rare or unknown texts to light.

The Corpus de la littérature francophone d’Afrique is edited according to the rules of the electronic scholarly edition.

CONTENTS

Countries

Benin (ex-Dahomey); Burkina Faso (ex-Upper-Volta); Burundi; Cameroon; Congo (Brazzaville); Ivory Coast; Djibouti; Gabon; Guinea; Mali (ex-French Soudan); Mauritania; Niger; Central Africa; Democratic Republic of Congo (ex-Zaïre); Rwanda; Senegal; Tchad; Togo.

RESEARCH FIELDS

Littératures, French languages, history, ethnology

EDITOR

Bibliography, collecting and editing: Claude Blum (University of Paris Sorbonne)

Scientific Committee: J.-R. Bourrel (CNED), Ministry of National Education; M. Calabuiko (Gaston Berger University, Saint-Louis, Sénégal); S. Dieng (Cheikh Anta Diop University, Dakar, Senegal); M. Djiou (Béni University in Lomé, Togo); J.-M. Glâsödün (? University of Paris Sorbonne); J.-M. Makeza-Mboulou (Marien Ngouabi University, Brazzaville, Congo; O. Tandina (Abdou Moumouni University, Niamey, Niger).
A complete corpus of francophone literature from Indian Ocean countries

This Corpus gives access, as completely as possible, to the whole of French-speaking literature, written and oral, from the Indian Ocean, from the origins in the eighteenth to Independence.

Reunion and Mauritius witnessed considerable literary production as early as the eighteenth century, while the twentieth century was particularly rich for Madagascan literature. In the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, works were published on local printing presses by local editors and their distribution was limited. Some of these editions are now known only through rare copies in few libraries, private collections or family archives in the native country.

The oral literature of the Indian Ocean was recorded by intellectuals or religious communities. It is to be found in specialised volumes or dispersed in didactic works (dictionaries, grammars, anthologies). We have used these sources to extract both the popular, scholarly, and often very ancient literary heritage of these countries.

This Corpus is based on extensive bibliographical research and the collection and editing of the texts themselves over a twenty-year period.

No library, public or private, or research centre possesses a collection of this importance, which gives easy access to meticulous editions of a little-known but very rich literature.

THE TEXT
The basic text chosen for the electronic edition corresponds to the original text as it has reached us.

EDITING LEVELS
The original text is edited in its identical original form. The French version of oral literary works is accompanied by a version in the original language, when that version exists.

COUNTRIES
Comores and Mayotte, Reunion Island, Mauritius, Madagascar, Seychelles.

RESEARCH FIELDS
Literatures, French, French-speaking, languages, history, ethnology, sociology.

EDITORIAL TEAM
Bibliography, collection, establishment and edition of texts: Claude Blum, Professor at the Universtiy of Paris Sorbonne. With the collaboraton of: Philippe Derendinger (University of Basel; Brigitte Springmann (Basel; Boubou Seck (Saint-Louis, Senegal).

With the support of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs
The Grand Corpus brings together online the four corpora of literature published by Classiques Garnier Digital:
- The Corpus de la littérature médiévale, des origines à la fin du xve siècle;
- The Corpus de la littérature narrative du Moyen Âge à la fin du xxé siècle;
- The Corpus de la première littérature francophone d’Afrique noire, des origines aux Indépendances (1960);
- The Corpus de la première littérature francophone de l’Océan Indien, des origines aux Indépendances (1960).

The complete Corpus allows the user to search over 14,000 texts and the complete works of nearby 300 authors. As with other resources published by Classiques Garnier Digital, all texts and bibliographic information are collected and verified, allowing for optimal faultless use of data. Among the fields of research available (depending on the collections) are: author, title of work, genre, date of composition, date of publication, place of publication, publisher, etc. The words of all the texts in the corpus are indexed and can be used as entries in searches.

Twenty-four search operators allow a detailed full-text search. Among the functions offered by Classiques Garnier Digital database are:
- Formation of corpora by the user, from which he/she can then advance all his/her research;
- User identification for each session, saving of searches made;
- Emailing, printing, exporting of search results, tables of contents, document pages, etc.

The basic text for the digital edition is the work’s original text in the latest edition produced in the author’s lifetime and approved by him/her. If this text does not exist, the text considered the most reliable by experts is retained (another edition in his/her lifetime, one of the posthumous editions, a manuscript, etc.). When a text exists in the original language (as with certain texts of the corpus of French-speaking literature of Sub-Saharan Africa and the Indian Ocean), it is offered in facsimile together with its translation into French.

THE LEVELS OF TEXT PUBLICATION

The diplomatic edition: the published edition is the exact copy of the printed original.
The modern written form if necessary.
The translated edition for the medieval period (accompanies the version in Old French).

With the support of the CNED – Ministry of Education, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Intergovernmental Organisation for Francophonie (oif)
The French Library is a Bibliopolis publication available online from the Classiques Garnier Digital platform. It contains the following collections of texts:

La Critique littéraire de Labarre à Proust - Literary Criticism from Laharpe to Proust:
Scholarly volumes, dialogues, prefaces, manifestos: the development of criticism is one of the great phenomena of nineteenth-century literature. Alongside experts, many famous writers experimented with this multiform genre; this corpus marks rediscovery of this rich literary heritage, lying forgotten in libraries until now.

Les Écrits sur l’art de Diderot à Proust - Writings on Art from Diderot to Proust:
This is a unique database, dedicated solely to writing on art. It brings together 78,000 pages, eighty-seven authors, and 250 titles from 1741 to 1919. From aesthetics and philosophy to art history, and from texts and journals by painters to novels, the user of this database will be struck by the diversity of fields and writings gathered together here.

Autour du romantisme, le roman - Around Romanticism, the Novel:
Around Romanticism brings together the complete works of the most studied Romantic writers: Hugo, Chateaubriand, Mérimée, Musset, Madame de Staël, Barbery d’Aurevilly and Benjamin Constant, as well as the works of authors at present out of print - Frederic Soulié, Madame Cottin... - yet famous in their time. From noir fiction to the feuilleton and melodramatic novels, the corpus makes this rich literary heritage available to libraries, students, and teachers, and reconstructs the literary atmosphere of the nineteenth century.

Les Romanciers réalistes et naturalistes - Realist and Naturalist Novelists:
The corpus consists of 300 works written between 1820 and 1910. It offers the complete works of novelists such as Balzac, Daudet, Flaubert, the Goncourt brothers, Huysmans, Maupassant, Stendhal, Vallès, and Zola. The user can also find a selection of lesser-known authors who played an important role in the literary world of the nineteenth century.

La Révolution et l’Empire vus par les historiens du xixe siècle - The Revolution and Empire as seen by Historians of the Nineteenth Century:
Marked by Revolution and Empire, the nineteenth century was the century of historians; the methods and schools which today constitute the basis of historical study grew up during this time. This database includes the complete works of the greatest French historians of the nineteenth century, totalling almost 100,000 pages of text.
Among the authors in this publication: Aulard, Barante, Louis Blanc, Buchez, Jaurès, Lamartine, Michelet, Quinet, Thiers, and Tocqueville.

La Poésie française - French Poetry:
This collection brings together the complete works of the greatest French poets from the Middle Ages to the First World War. Featuring more than 750 collections, this corpus allows the user to make connections and correspondences between these great poetic texts.

Théâtre du Grand Siècle - Theatre of the Great Century:
This corpus contains the complete works of the three major French playwrights: Corneille, Molière, and Racine. The interface allows the user to navigate the database, viewing selected acts, scenes and extracts, but also to create original keyword searches, allowing him/ her to make the most of these masterpieces of classical theatre.

Les Romans du xviè siècle - Novels of the Seventeenth Century:
For the first time, the texts of Astrée, Grand Cyrus and Célie are republished in their entirety. To put these works back into context, the database also includes rare texts by Segrais, Duplaisir, François Hedelin of Aubignac, Catherine Bernard, Anne Ferrand, and Jean de Prêchac.

CONTENTS
A full set covering literature, literary criticism, art and history.
Montaigne’s complete works, from sixteenth century up to today

The Corpus des Œuvres de Montaigne is the result of twenty years of dedicated research by Claude Blum: it contains the different publications of Montaigne’s work, both before and after his death, throughout the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. This set thus contains, firstly, twenty-five editions published from the manuscript and the printed originals.

There are three different levels of edition:
1. The diplomatic editions in text mode are the exact copy of the printed originals (several typographical fonts were created to this end). Diplomatic editions are the only way to ensure saving and exploitation of all the data contained in the original texts.
2. The critically edition established in text mode (with correction of abbreviations and misprints, critical editing of the text).
3. Modernised editions (text with modernised spelling).

Secondly, the set also contains some twenty major editions of Montaigne’s work published in the eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth centuries with their complete critical apparatus.

Contents

1 - Original Editions
Esais, editions published during his life:
- 1580 (Bordeaux, Millanges);
- 1582 (Bordeaux, Millanges);
- 1587 (Paris, Richer);
- 1588 (Paris, L'Angelier).
Esais, editions published after his death by his editor Mlle de Gournay:
- 1595 (L'Angelier);
- 1598 (L'Angelier);
- 1600 (L'Angelier);
- 1602 (L'Angelier);
- 1604 (L'Angelier);
- 1611 (Gueffier);
- 1617 (Nivelle);
- 1625 (Dallin);
- 1635 (Camusat).
Optional modernized spelling for the 1595 edition.
Théologie naturelle, editions of 1569 (Paris, Gourbin);
- 1581 (Paris, Gourbin);
- 1603 (Rouen, Romain Beauvais);
- 1605 (Tours, Thomas Soubron);
- 1611 (Paris, Toussaint du Bray).
Optional modernized spelling for the 1581 edition.
Raymond Second, Théologie naturelle; editing of the latin text.
Journal de voyage: the four editions of M. de Querlon, 1774, Le Jay, Paris (1 vol. in-4; 3 vol. in-12; 2 vol. in-12; 2 vol. in-12 without the Italian part), and 1775 (3 vol.).
Optional modernized spelling.
Marginalia (Montaignes’ annotations in books of his library): Editions of Cesare, Quinte–Carce and Nicole Gilles.
Lettres

2 – New presentations of the main editions of the Œuvres of Montaigne published in the eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth centuries, in five languages with their complete critical apparatus.
- 1745: P. Coste, London (7 volumes).
- 1753-1754: J.D. Tietz, edited in German language, Leipzig (3 volumes).
- 1802: Naigeon, Paris (4 volumes).
- 1818-1823: E. Johanneau, Paris (5 volumes).
- 1872-1900: E. Courbet and Ch. Royer, Paris (4 volumes).
- 1906-1933: F. Strowski, Fr. Gibelin, P. Villey, Bordeaux (5 volumes).
- 1924-1941: A. Armaingaud, Paris (12 volumes).

Editions of the Journal de Voyage

Facsimile
- Facsimiles of the original edition of the Essais. Editions of 1580, 1582, 1587, 1588.
- Facsimile of the “Exemplaire de Bordeaux” manuscript.

Research fields
Literature, philosophy, history, history of ideas.

Editor
Claude Blum, Professor at the Univeristy of Paris Sorbonne.
Recent works reveal Pierre Bayle (1647-1706) to be not only a lucid and sardonic observer of trends in the “new philosophy” in France but also an active player in the development of critical rationalism and in the crisis of rationalistic theology at the turn of the seventeenth century.

A specialist in the history of philosophy, Bayle creates a space for dialogue between ancient and modern philosophers with energy and unparalleled learning he strove to demonstrate that what he saw as the most consistent of “Christian philosophy”, that of Malebranche, faces irresolvable objections.

Bayle was also a pioneering journalist, addressing the literary Republic, the forerunner of today’s Europe. A theorist of a modern conception of tolerance, he developed the idea of civic tolerance (today we would call it ‘secularism’) throughout Europe.

Contents

Œuvres diverses, ed. by Pierre Des Maizeaux, La Haye, P. Husson et al., 1727-1731

Volume I
- Nouvelles de la République des lettres (March 1684 - February 1687)

Volume II
- Nouvelles lettres de l’auteur de la Critique générale de l’Histoire du Calvinisme

Volume III
- Pensées diverses à l’occasion d’une Comète, &c.

Volume IV
- Entretiens de Maxime et de Themiste
- Opuscules de M. Pierre Bayle
- Institution brevis et accurata Totius Philosophiae / Système abrégié de philosophie

Objections contre le Traité de Pierre Poiret
Le Retour des pièces choisies, ou Bigarreurs curieuses
Préface à Isaac Papin

Avantissement - Essais de théologie sur la Providence et la Grâce
Thèses philosophiques, pour, faison Dieu, publicées impromptu subjiciént, sub præsidio Petri Baelli (…) Philiæus Muysson
Thèses philosophiques, pour, faison Dieu, publicées sur rendez-vous sub præsidio Petri Baelli (…) Antonius de Massames
La Porte du ciel grande ouverte (traduction de Janua Cœlorum reservata cunctis Religionibus)

Histoire des ouvrages des savants [issues attributable to Bayle, May 1692, April 1693]

Research fields

Literature, philosophy, history, theology, criticism

Editorial team

Directors of research: Antony McKenna, Institut d’Histoire de la Pensée classique (CNRS UMR 5037), Université Jean Monner Saint-Etienne Gianluca Mori, Groupe National de Recherche sur la philosophie moderne, de la Renaissance aux Lumières, Université du Piémont Oriental.

Research committee: Lorenzo Bianchi (Naples, L’Orientale), Hubert Bost (EPHE, Paris), Hans Bors (Nimègue), Wep van Bunge (Rotterdam), Jean-Michel Gros (Paris), Jonathan Israel (Princeton), Pierre-François Moreau, (ENS Lyon), Gianni Paganini (Vercelli), Maria-Cristina Pitassi (IHR, Genève).

Research teams: Institut d’Histoire de la Pensée classique (CNRS UMR 5037: Lyon-Saint-Etienne), director, P.-E. Moreau Groupe de recherche sur la tradition de la Renaissance, le libertinage et les Lumières, Naples, L’orientale, director, L. Bianchi Groupe National de Recherche sur la philosophie moderne, de la Renaissance aux Lumières (Université du Piémont Oriental, Vercelli), director, G. Paganini Laboratoire d’Erudes sur le Monothéisme (LEM, CNRS UMR 8584), director, O. Boulnois Institut Pierre Bayle (Nimègue), director, Ch. Berkvens-Stevelinck History of Philosophy: the early Enlightenment in the Dutch Republic (Université Erasmus, Rotterdam), director, W. van Bunge Institut d’Histoire de la Réformation (Genève), director, M.-C. Pitassi.

Published with the support of Carla-Bayle, the Midi-Pyrénées region, and the Rhône-Alpes region
No other collection of philosophical, theological or literary works can be compared to the Patrologia Græco-Latina, an impressive patristic library gathered together by Jacques-Paul Migne at the end of the nineteenth century.

The Patrologia is divided into two series: the Patrologia Latina (series latina) and the Patrologia Græco-Latina (series græco-latina).

The Patrologia Graeco-Latina gathers together the works of the Greek Fathers from the first century (Pseudo-Clement) to 1478 (Calliste). These works were published in 161 quarto volumes (plus three additional volumes for Theodore Hopfner’s Index Locupletissimus, Paris, 1928–1936, and Ferdinand Cavallera’s Indices, Paris, 1912). The Patrologia Graeco-Latina publishes all major and minor Greek authors and gives access to the most important texts of Christian Antiquity and the Middle Ages. One can find works by authors as different as Irenaeus of Lyons, Clement of Alexandria, Origen, Eusebius of Caesarea, Gregory of Nyssa, St. John Chrysostom, Cyril of Alexandria, Maximus Confessor, John Damascene, Georgius Pachymeres or Symeon Metaphrastes and hundreds more. The Patrologia Graeco-Latina remains the reference work for most of these authors.

The Patrologia Graeco-Latina is an essential set of works for patristic and theological studies, medieval history and literature, study of Greek and Latin works from late Antiquity, and study of early Christian and the Middle Ages. It is a valuable resource for many fields of humanities, constituting an essential contribution to philosophy, art history and medical history. No other database covers so many subjects over such a long period.

The digital version of the Patrologia Graeco-Latina allows new methodological approaches and brings with it a whole range of new possibilities for work and research on this encyclopaedic collection. With the electronic version of the works, the reader may consult the text and launch sophisticated searches that were hitherto impossible; he or she can now compare a variety of texts, export and print them, alongside search results.

The complete version in image mode can be consulted by means of tables and several detailed indices (more than 20,000,000 signs):
- analytical table of contents (Latin),
- analytical table of contents (Greek),
- search for all authors,
- search for all titles,
- search for notions,
- search for subjects.

EDITOR

Claude Blum, Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne; Pascal Thiercy, Professor at the University of Brest (Greek and Latin Department); Philippe Derendinger, Assistant Lecturer at the University of Basel.
The first French grammars are characterised by their great depth and extreme diversity. The genre was not narrowly defined and corresponded to a variety of practices: not only description of the French language, but also teaching to foreigners keen to learn a new idiom and culture which were penetrating all European countries. The books are of very variable length, from a few manuscript pages to 1,000 printed pages. The language in which they are written also varies: French, of course, but also English, German and very often Latin. For the first time, an electronic corpus allows the scholar to carry out sophisticated and multiple researches in books hitherto much neglected.

To facilitate systematic research, the Corpus des grammaires de la Renaissance (Corpus of French Renaissance Grammars) provides the user with a great number of research tools: full-text research, thesaurus of authors (5 categories) and of titles (3 categories), thesaurus of examples and quotations. The user can thus build up his/her own corpus, extract and export results, etc.

CONTENTS

| [Donat] | Quantes parties d’oraison sont ? 14e s. |
| [Barton, Johan] | Donaturi francii, ca. 1409 |
| [Martin Morin] | Principia grammaticalia, ca. 1498 |
| John Palsgrave, | Lesclarissement de la langue francoye, Londres, 1530 |
| Jacobus Sylvius Ambianus [Jacques Dubois], | In linguam Gallicam isagwge et Grammatica Latino-Gallica, Paris, 1531 |
| Charles de Bovelles, | Liber de differentia vulgarium linguarum et Gallici sermonis varitate, 1535 |
| Aelii Donati de octo partibus orationis libellus, Paris, 1585 [1545] |
| Louis Meignret, | Le tregt de la grãmaire frangueze, Paris, 1550 |
| Jean Pillor, | Gallicae linguae institutio, Latino sermone conscripta, Paris, 1561 [1550] |
| Robert Estienne, | Traité de la grãmaire Françoise, Paris, 1557 |
| Gabriel Meurier, | La Grammaire frangaise, Anvers, 1557 |
| Jean Garnier, | Institutio gallicae linguae in usum inuuentit Germanicae, Genève, 1558 |
| Abel Matthieu, | Devis de la langue francoyse, Paris, 1559 |
| Abel Matthieu, | Second Devis et principal propos de la langue francoyse, Paris, 1560 |
| Gérard Du Vivier, | Grammaire frangaise, Cologne, 1566 |
| Gérard Du Vivier, | Briefe Institution de la langue francocye, expliqué en Alemun, Cologne, 1568 |
| Antoine Cauchie, | Grammaticae gallicae libri tres, Strasbourg, 1586 [1570] |
| Petrus Ramus [Pierre de la Ramée], | Gramery, Paris, 1562 |
| Petrus Ramus [Pierre de la Ramée], | Grammaire, Paris, 1572 |
| Jean Bosquet, | Element ou institutions de la langue francoyse, Mons, 1586 |
| Joannes Serreius [Jean Serrier], | Grammatica Gallica nova, Strasbourg, 1623 [1598] |

RESEARCH FIELDS

History of the language, grammar, linguistic codes, history of linguistic theories, translation, sociolinguistic variations, literature.

EDITORIAL TEAM

Under the direction of Bernard Colombat (University of Paris Diderot) and Jean-Marie Fournier (University of Sorbonne Nouvelle Paris 3): Susan Baddeley (University of Versailles Saint-Quentin-en-Yvelines; Geneviève Clerico (University of Rennes 2 Haute Bretagne; Maria Colombo Timelli (University of Milan; Alain Cullière (University of Metz; Colette Demaizière (University of Jean Moulin Lyon 3; Brigitte Hébert (University of Louis Lumière Lyon 2; Alberte Jacquelin-Gaudet (Paris; Odile Leclercq (University of Provence; Francine Mazière (University of Paris 13; Valérie Raby (University of Paris Sorbonne).
The Corpus des grammaires françaises du XVIIe siècle (Corpus of French Grammars of the seventeenth Century) contains the most notable grammars of the Classical period. Beyond the interest in the French language to which they bear witness, these works correspond to very different ambitions: to stabilize common language by identifying it with its “best” form; starting with French (and some other languages), to define “general” rules of the “art of talking”; to help foreigners (particularly English and Flemish) to learn the French language.

They are written in French, but call on other languages (Masset’s Acheminement is translated into Latin, La Grue calls largely on Latin, Mauger on English). They can assume different forms: didactic treatises, dialogues, lists of vocabulary, etc. The use of certain methods is reciprocal: Mauger’s grammar allows an English reader to learn French and a French reader to learn English. The representation of these works is as close as possible to the original.

To explore these texts, the Corpus des grammaires françaises du XVIIe siècle (Corpus of French Grammars of the seventeenth Century) offers teachers, researchers and students a vast range of search tools: full-text searches, thesaurus of authors (5 categories), titles (3 categories), example and quotations. The user can thus build up his/her own corpus, extract and export results, etc.

CONTENTS

Jean Masset, Exact et tres-facile acheminement à la langue françoise, 1606
Charles Maupas, Grammaire et syntaxe françoise, 1618 [1607]
Antoine Oudin, Grammaire française rapportée au langage du temps, 1640 [1632]
Claude Mauger, French Grammar with additions, 1684 [1653]
Thomas de La Grue, La vraie Introduction à la Langue françoise, 1669 [avant 1655]
Claude Iseron, Nouvelle méthode pour apprendre facilement les principes et la pureté de la langue française, 1662 [1656]
Antoine Arnauld & Claude Lancelot, Grammaire Générale et Raisonnée, 1676 [1660]
Denis Vairasse d’Allais, Grammaire Méthodique contenant en abrégé les Principes de cet art et les règles les plus nécessaires à la langue française, 1681
Louis de Courcillon de Dangeau, Opuscules sur la grammaire, 1694
Pierre de La Touche, L’art de bien parler françois (2 vol.), 1730 [1696]

RESEARCH FIELDS

History of the language, grammar, linguistic codes, history of linguistic theories, translation, sociolinguistic variations, literature.

EDITORIAL TEAM

Under the direction of Bernard Colombat (University of Paris Diderot) and Jean-Marie Fournier (University of Sorbonne Nouvelle Paris 3); Susan Baddeley (University of Versailles Saint-Quentin-en-Yvelines); Bérangère Bouard (University of Rennes 2 Haute Bretagne); Simone Delesalle (University of Paris 8); Nathalie Fournier (University of Louis Lumière Lyon 2); Florence Lefevre (University of Sorbonne Nouvelle Paris 3); Odile Leclercq (University of Provence); Francine Mazière (University of Paris 13); Valérie Raby (University of Paris Sorbonne); Christophe Rey (University of Picardie); Serge Vlassov (University of Saint-Petersburg); Chantal Wionet (University of Avignon).

With the collaboration of Jan Noordegraaf (University of Amsterdam); Cendrine Pagani-Naudet (University of Nice-Sophia Antipolis).
The Corpus des remarques sur la langue française (xviié siècle) (Corpus of 17th century volumes of remarks on the French language) presents a typically French genre which first appeared in the middle of the seventeenth century. The volumes of remarks, observations or reflections on the language do not generally deal with basic grammar, but rather with peculiarities or particular points of usage which posed a problem for those who were the best speakers of French. The authors of these volumes of remarks treat all aspects of usage – pronunciation, spelling, morphology, syntax, vocabulary and style – but abandon the traditional format of grammars. This Corpus is an indispensable resource, not only for specialists of seventeenth century language and literature, but also for all those interested in the history of the French language, its codification and standardisation.

The database contains the classic texts (the remarks of Vaugelas, Ménage and Bouhours; collections which adopt an alphabetical presentation (Alemand, Andry de Boisregard; texts which criticise Vaugelas and call for greater freedom of usage (Dupleix, La Mothe Le Vayer; volumes which are produced by the Academy (the Academy's comments on Vaugelas, and its decisions collected by Tallemant), as well as some less well-known texts (Buffet's observations addressed to a female audience, Macé's volume which includes a compilation of observations alongside a general and rational grammar).

To enable systematic exploitation, the Corpus of 17th century volumes of remarks on the French language offers teachers, researchers and students a vast range of search tools: full-text searches, thesauruses of authors (5 categories), titles (3 categories), examples and quotations. It provides the option of creating one's own working corpus, extracting and exporting the results. Such an exceptional collection will clearly give new life to research on the history of the French language and the history of French linguistic ideas.

CONTENTS

Nicolas Andry de Boisregard, Réflexions, ou Remarques critiques sur l’usage present de la langue françoise, Paris, 1692 [1689]
Nicolas Andry de Boisregard, Suite des réflexions critiques sur l’usage present de la langue françoise, Paris, 1693
Scipion Dupleix, Liberté de la langue françoise dans sa pureté, Paris, 1651
François de La Mothe Le Vayer, Lettres touchant les nouvelles remarques sur la langue françoise, Paris, 1669 [1647]
Jean MACÉ, Methode universelle pour apprendre facilement les langues, pour parler purement et escrire nettement en françois, Paris, 1651 [1650?]
Claude Favre de Vaugelas, Remarques sur la langue françoise utiles à ceux qui veulent bien parler et bien escrire, Paris, 1647

RESEARCH FIELDS

History of the language, grammar, linguistic codes, history of linguistic theories, translation, sociolinguistic variations, literature.

EDITORIAL TEAM

Under the direction of Wendy Ayres-Bennett (University of Cambridge); Marc Bonhomme (University of Berne; Philippe Caron (University of Poitiers); Simone Delesalle (University of Paris 8; Isabelle Ducharme (Montréal); Anne-Marguerite Fryba-Reber (University of Berne; Marcus Keller (University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; Douglas Kibbee (University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; Francine Mazière (University of Paris 13; Magali Seijido (University of Cambridge; Gilles Siouffi (University of Montpellier III; Barbara Von Gemmingen (Heinrich-Heine Universität, Düsseldorf; Chantal Wionet (University of Avignon). With the collaboration of André Horak (University of Berne).
The Grand Corpus des grammaires françaises, des remarques et des traités sur la langue (XIVe-XVIIe siècles) (Great Corpus of French-language Grammars, Commentaries and Treatises on Language (14th-17th centuries)) brings together in one database the Corpus of French Renaissance Grammars, the Corpus of French 17th Century Grammars and the Corpus of remarks on the French Language (17th Century). This is close to representing all the French grammars from fourteenth to seventeenth century. Each grammar is presented both in a digital form, which faithfully transcribes the original text and also as a fac-simile. The Great Corpus is unique in offering search options ranging from simple consultations to advanced academic research, meeting the needs of scholars and students alike.

For instance, the user can conduct searches on different levels of the text’s structure. This includes not only full-text searches (on the different words of the text, on the metatext or metalinguistic terms), but also searches on specific parts of the texts: the pre-texts, post-texts, chapters, sub-chapters, paragraphs, notes (editor’s and author’s notes, the marginalia, etc.) as well as examples and quotations. To cite another feature of the search engine’s capabilities: author searches can be refined whether we are dealing with the author of a grammar (according to the date of composition, edition, printing, etc. of the text) or an author cited in a grammar (source of an example, quotation or opinion, or as a historical or mythological figure). Hundreds of combinations are therefore possible, allowing each user to employ the Great Corpus according to his/her own needs, whether these are simple, one-off queries or are part of a more detailed, long-term research project. Created by a team of internationally recognised researchers, the Great Corpus is an essential resource for every consultation or research library.

To enable systematic use, the three collections making up the Great Corpus offer teachers, researchers, and students a vast range of research tools: full-text searches, thesauruses of authors (5 categories), titles (3 categories), examples and quotations. The Great Corpus provides the option of creating one’s own working corpus, extracting and exporting the results. Such an exceptional collection will clearly give new life to research on the history of the French language and the history of French linguistic ideas.

For the contents, research fields and editorial team, please see the previous pages 16, 17, 18.
The most important reference book for the study of the Old French

A major dictionary of more than 20 million words, the Dictionnaire de l’ancienne langue française constitutes, alongside the Altfranzösisches Wörterbuch by Adolf Tobler and Erhard Lommatzsch, the ‘essential element of Old French lexicography’ (Georges Matoré).

The dictionary contains more than 160,000 entries. It presents us with the full richness of the Old French language, with words from the Middle Ages which have either been dropped by modern language or acquired new meanings. Collecting examples from all kinds of sources – printed papers, books, and library archives – F. Godefroy traced the history of words in spoken language, dialect, and names of people and places. In short, Godefroy’s Dictionnaire gathers together the richest collection of words and forms possible.

Godefroy collected ‘well-constructed and long-term’ words used by the major authors of the eleventh, twelfth, and thirteenth centuries (about 370,000 extracts from authors). Yet he also explored the fifteenth century, collecting scientific and juridical terms found in French and Latin archives.

‘For the sake of knowledge’: Godefroy dedicated his life to the dictionary. Its completion and improvement were his major aims. He worked tirelessly on it, providing corrections for each volume, adding two and a half volumes of supplementary material, and later extending his field of research to archaic and scholarly words and words of the sixteenth century.

With the Dictionnaire de l’ancienne langue française, F. Godefroy created an invaluable lexicographical treasure ‘of great importance in French Studies’ (J. Monfrin).

EDITOR

Presented by Jean Dufournet †, Emeritus Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne Nouvelle.
Edited by Claude Blum, Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne in collaboration with Jean Dufournet †.
LA CURNE DE SAINTE-PALAYE
DICTIONNAIRE HISTORIQUE DE L’ANCIEN LANGAGE FRANÇAIS
DEPUIS SON ORIGINE JUSQU’AU SIÈCLE DE LOUIS XIV

Essential for the study of Old French

La Curne de Sainte-Palaye’s Dictionnaire historique de l’ancien langage français depuis son origine jusqu’au siècle de Louis XIV is “an indispensable working tool for further study of the vocabulary of early French” (Gilles Roussineau).

The dictionary is an essential complement to Frédéric Godefroy’s Dictionnaire de l’ancienne langue française et de tous ses dialectes du xivᵉ au xixe siècle and to Edmond Huguet’s Dictionnaire de la langue du xviᵉ siècle.

Born in 1697, Jean-Baptiste de La Curne de Sainte-Palaye developed the Historical Dictionary of the Old French Language or the Glossary of the French Language from its Origin to the Reign of Louis XIV. Unfortunately it was not published during the author’s lifetime. It is thanks to the diligence of Leopold Favre, a scholarly polygraph from the second half of the nineteenth century, that La Curne’s monumental work was published in ten volumes between 1875 and 1882.

With its detailed glossary and extensive corpus considered (literary, historical and didactic texts of the twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, printed material of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, charts, ancient inventories, etc.), La Curne’s Dictionary is an invaluable instrument for historians of the French language, and particularly for specialists of the Middle Ages.

With its 56,000 entries, the Historical Dictionary of La Curne de Sainte-Palaye is an indispensible tool for those studying of the vocabulary of Old and Middle French. La Curne’s remarkable skill in elucidating the specific meaning of words and classifying their various connotations, and his study of rare words, idioms and proverbs of Old and Middle French, make his work an invaluable source.

RESEARCH FIELDS

Medieval studies, Old French, literature, history, language history, lexicography.

EDITORIAL TEAM

Presentation by Gilles Roussineau, Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne. Published by Claude Blum, Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne.
EDMOND HUGUET
Dictionnaire de la langue du XVIe siècle

EDMOND HUGUET - DICTIONARY OF THE FRENCH LANGUAGE OF THE SIXTEENTH CENTURY

The main dictionary for the language of the Renaissance (fifteenth and sixteenth centuries)

With more than 100,000 entries, the Dictionnaire features nearly every word of Renaissance language. To achieve this feat, Huguet did not limit his work to the sixteenth century: he often explored the fifteenth century, linking his work to Godefroy’s dictionary to put his lexicon in perspective. He also extended his work to the seventeenth century to give his dictionary depth and build a true ‘history of words’.

Huguet consulted thousands of texts to establish his list of obsolete words. Among them, he emphasized borrowed words that came mostly from Latin or Italian, words that had enjoyed great success in the sixteenth century before dropping out of common usage. Fully aware that a history of words is also a history of their changes in meaning, Huguet drew up a list of thousands of words or faux amis which are deceptively familiar to a modern reader. For words from the Renaissance still in use Huguet gives the exact date of their appearance.

Huguet also gives the spelling and translation of words in modern French. Under each entry he gathers together all its orthographical forms throughout the ages, and gives a precise, nuanced translation into modern French.

The number and variety of examples given is of a reach far beyond what was necessary to determine the precise meaning of the words. Huguet was not content simply to compose a lexicographical work. His project was much wider: he aimed to provide readers and historians with the full range of documents he had accumulated on the vocabulary of the ‘long’ sixteenth century.

EDITOR
Claude Blum, Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne.
The Founding dictionaries of the French language

This corpus of the Dictionaries of the sixteenth and seventeenth Centuries contains the ten most important dictionaries published in the period. Each contributed, in its own way, to the construction and consolidation of French lexicography and language. This database is presented in arborescent form, allowing access at any moment to a particular dictionary at one’s chosen entry point and easy passage from one dictionary to another.

Beyond full-text searches, cross-searches can be made in the following fields: one or several dictionaries, entry, and sub-entry, grammatical categories, signs of domain or usage, definition of a word, entire article. Indices are given for all fields.

This database of dictionaries modifies and modernizes research on language history and lexicography.

Three kinds of book constitute this dictionary database:

- bilingual dictionaries, Latin-French (Estienne and Nicot) or English-French (Cotgrave)
- the dictionaries of Gilles Ménage (1650 and 1694), which gather together a vast quantity of information on the presumed origins of the French language (regional and vernacular languages).
- dictionaries which played a part in establishing the reputation of the French language and thus support a linguistic policy which aimed to give world-wide influence to French culture: those of Richelet, Furetière, the French Academy and Thomas Corneille.

CONTENTS

Dictionnaire français-latin by Robert Estienne, Paris, 1549
Thresor de la langue françoyse, tant ancienne que moderne by Jean Nicot, Paris, 1606
A Dictionarie of the french and english tongues by Randle Cotgrave, London, 1611
Les Origines de la langue française by Gilles Ménage, Paris, 1650
Dictionnaire français by Pierre Richelet, Genève, 1680
Essai d’un dictionaire universal by Antoine Furetière, Amsterdam, 1687
Dictionaire universel by Antoine Furetière, La Haye et Rotterdam, 1690
Dictionnaire éyymologique ou Origines de la langue française by Gilles Ménage, Paris, 1694
Le Dictionnaire de l’Académie française dedié au Roy, Paris, 1694
Le Dictionnaire des Arts et des Sciences by Thomas Corneille, Paris, 1694

RESEARCH FIELDS

Science of dictionaries, lexicography, history, linguistic history, literature.

EDITORIAL TEAM

Published by Claude Blum, Professeur at the University of Paris Sorbonne.

With the collaboration of: Ahmed Benalioua (IRHT, Paris); Philippe Derendinger (University of Basel); Patrick Gilbert (CESR, Tours); Laurent Leidwanger (IRHT, Paris); Laurence Plazenet (University of Paris Sorbonne); François Roudaut (University of Montpellier III); Chantal Wionet (University of Avignon and METADIF, CNRS).

With the support of the Centre National des Lettres
CORPS DES DICTIONNAIRES DE L’ACADÉMIE FRANÇAISE DU XVIIᵉ AU XXᵉ SIÈCLE

CORPUS OF DICTIONARIES OF THE FRENCH ACADEMY FROM THE SEVENTEENTH TO THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

The complete set of dictionaries of the French Academy from the seventeenth to the twentieth century

This Corpus gathers together all the thirteen dictionaries produced by the French Academy from its beginnings in 1687 to the present day. As such it charts linguistic policy in France since the seventeenth century onwards.

The first edition of 1694 may be regarded as the first linguistic manifestation of political power, and as the first attempt to create an image for the French language by choosing to deal with common, everyday language. The next three editions (1718, 1740 and 1762) continue the work of the former Academicians with certain modifications and innovations. Spelling was modified in 1740 and follows modern usage. Over time, quotations appeared. The general outlook of the 1762 edition was influenced by Enlightenment philosophy. Published at the time of the French Revolution the 1798 edition produced definitions in tune with the new Revolutionary ideology. With the 1835 edition, the Dictionnaires de l’Académie française (Dictionaries of the French Academy) entered the modern era, and became the bible for the most important writers of the nineteenth century. The layout and nomenclature of the preceding editions were revised; moreover, this edition marks the change from the language of the monarchy to the language of the republic.

The 1878 edition simply provided a supplement to the excellent 1835 edition, with additional entries to reflect the evolution of the language. The edition published in 1932-1935 is the only complete edition of the Dictionnaires de l’Académie française (Dictionaries of the French Academy) devoted to modern language. It is characterised by an ever more modern and well-founded art of definition and by its intention to offer a faithful reflection of the twentieth century. The next edition is still in the process of being composed.

The Dictionnaire des Arts et des Sciences (Dictionary of Arts and Sciences) published in 1694 came to complete the Academic dictionary of usage in the fields of the arts, sciences and technology. It was published in Paris under the direction of Thomas Corneille. The Complément du Dictionnaire de l’Académie (Supplement to the Dictionary of the Academy), under the direction of Louis Barré, took over that role in 1842. Dictionnaires de l’Académie française (Dictionaries of the French Academy) thus became a “Universal Dictionary” (Preface, p. XVIII).

CONTENTS

Dictionnaire de l’Académie francoise (from A to Aversion), pre-original edition [1], Francfort, 1687

Dictionnaire de l’Académie francoise (from A to Confiture), pre-original edition [2], Francfort, 1687

Dictionnaire de l’Académie francoise (from A to Neuf), pre-original edition [3], Paris, 1687

Dictionnaire de l’Académie francoise dédié au Roy, Paris, 1694

Nouveau Dictionnaire de l’Académie francoise dédié au Roy, Paris, 1718

Dictionnaire de l’Académie francoise, Paris, 1740

Dictionnaire de l’Académie francisée, Paris, 1762

Dictionnaire de l’Académie francoise, Paris, 1798

Dictionnaire de l’Académie francoise, Paris, 1835

Dictionnaire de l’Académie francoise, Paris, 1879

Additions for Sciences, Arts and Techniques

Corneille (Thomas), Dictionnaire des Arts et des Sciences, 1694

Barré (Louis), Complément du Dictionnaire de l’Académie francoise, 1842

RESEARCH FIELDS

Science of dictionaries, lexicography, history, linguistic history, literature.

EDITORIAL TEAM

Published by Claude Blum, Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne.

For the analytical and documentary section:

Susan Baddeley (University of Saint-Quentin en Yvelines; Simone Benhamou (Paris; Liselotte Biedermann-Pasques (CNRS-INALF; Jean Buffin (Paris; Michel Dessaint (INALCO; Bernaud Quernada (Paris; Eugénia Roucher (Paris; Liliane Tasker (Paris)

With the collaboration of:

Philippe Derendinger (University of Basel; Laurence Plazenet (University of Paris Sorbonne; Chantal Wionet (University of Avignon and METADIF; CNRS).
GRAND CORPS DES DICTIONNAIRES DE LANGUE FRANÇAISE,
DU IXE AU XXE SIÈCLE

GREAT CORPUS OF DICTIONARIES OF THE FRENCH LANGUAGE, FROM THE NINETH TO THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

A complete set of reference dictionaries for the studies of the French language

The Great Corpus of dictionaries gathers the twenty-four most important dictionaries on French language with 200,000 pages (2,500 signs per page), 900,000 entries and definitions in total, it is the greatest collection available on the subject today.

Ranging from Frédéric Godefroy’s the Dictionary of Old French Language and All Its Dialects From the ninth to the fifteenth Century (1881-1902), the “the essential element” of Old French lexicography (Georges Matoré) to the Dictionary of the French Academy (1932-1935) devoted to modern French and characterised by an ever more reflexive and well-founded art of definition and by the intention to give a faithful reflection of the twentieth century, the corpus includes:

- the Historical Dictionary of Old French Language by La Carne de Sainte-Palaye, “an incomparable tool for the in-depth study of ancient French vocabulary” (Gilles Roussineau).
- the Dictionary of the sixteenth Century (1925-1967) by Edmond Huguet, the essential reference dictionary for the language of the Renaissance
- the bilingual dictionaries, Latin-French (Estienne and Nicot) or English-French (Cotgrave)
- the dictionaries by Gilles Ménage (1650 and 1694) which gather together a vast quantity of information on the presumed origins of the French language (regional and vernacular languages).
- the dictionaries by Richelet and Furetière, dictionaries that played a part in establishing the reputation of the French language, thus supporting a linguistic policy which aimed at giving world-wide influence to French culture.
- the Dictionaries of the French Academy, from its beginnings in 1687 to the present day, thus representing linguistic policy in France since the seventeenth century.
- the Dictionary of Arts and Sciences published in Paris under the direction of Thomas Corneille, perfectly completing the Dictionaries of the French Academy in the fields of the arts, sciences and technics.
- the Addition to the Dictionary of the Academy, under the direction of Louis Barré, tooks over that role in 1842. Dictionary of the Academy thus became a “Universal Dictionary” (Preface, p. XVIII).

CONTENTS

Frédéric Godefroy, Dictionnaire de l’ancienne langue française de tous ses dialectes du IXe au XVIe siècle
La Carne de Sainte-Palaye, Dictionnaire historique de l’ancien langage français depuis son origine jusqu’au siècle de Louis XIV
Edmond Huguet, Dictionnaire de la langue française du XVIe siècle
Robert Estienne, Dictionnaire Francois-latin, 1549
Jean Nicot, Théoré de la langue françoys, tant ancienne que moderne, 1606
Randel Cotgrave, A Dictionarie of the french and english tongues, 1611
Gilles Ménage, Les Origines de la langue française, 1650
Pierre Richelet, Dictionnaire françois, 1680
Le Dictionnaire de l’Académie française, 1687 [Avant-Première 1]
= de A à Aversion
Le Dictionnaire de l’Académie française, 1687 [Avant-Première 2]
= de A à Confiture
Le Dictionnaire de l’Académie française, 1687 [Avant-Première 3]
= de A à Neuf
Antoine Furetière, Essai d’un Dictionaire universel, 1687
Antoine Furetière, Dictionnaire Universel, 1690
Le Dictionnaire de l’Académie française édité au Roy, 1694 [Première édition]
Thomas Corneille, Le Dictionnaire des Arts et des Sciences, 1694
Gilles Ménage, Dictionnaire rhymologique ou Origine de la langue française, 1694
Nouveau Dictionnaire de l’Académie française, 1718 [Deuxième édition]
Dictionnaire de l’Académie française, 1740 [Troisième édition]
Dictionnaire de l’Académie française, 1762 [Quatrième édition]
Dictionnaire de l’Académie française, 1798 [Cinquième édition]
Dictionnaire de l’Académie française, 1835 [Sixième édition]
Louis Barré, Complément de Dictionnaire de l’Académie française, 1842
Dictionnaire de l’Académie française, 1879 [Septième édition]
Dictionnaire de l’Académie française, 1932-1935 [Huitième édition]

RESEARCH FIELDS

Medieval studies, Old French, studies on Renaissance, Middle French language, the classical centuries, philosophy, modern times, literature, history, language history, science of dictionary, lexicography, law, sciences, etc.

EDITORIAL TEAM

Editorial director: Claude Blum, Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne.
- Godefroy, Dictionnaire de l’ancienne langue française
With the collaboration of Jean Dufournet †, Emeritus Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne nouvelle
- La Carne de Sainte-Palaye, Dictionnaire historique de l’ancien langage français depuis son origine jusqu’au siècle de Louis XIV
With an introduction by Gilles Roussineau, Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne
- Dictionnaires des XVIe et XVIIe siècles
Edited with the support of the Centre National des Lettres.
With the collaboration of: Ahmed Benalioua (IRHT, Paris); Philippe Derendinger (University of Basel); Patrick Gilbert (CESR, Tours; LAUENT Leidwanger (IRHT, Paris; Laurence Plazenet (University of Paris Sorbonne; François Roaduax (University of Montpellier III; Chantal Winnet (University of Avignon and METADIF, CNRS)
- Corps des dictionnaires de l’Académie française (du XVIe au XXe siècle)
With the collaboration of: Philippe Derendinger (University of Basel), Laurence Plazenet (University of Paris Sorbonne), Chantal Winnet (University of Avignon and METADIF, CNRS)

DICTIONAIRES, GRAMMARs ET ENCYCLOPEDIAEs 25
An encyclopaedia of eighteenth-century European knowledge and culture

The Encyclopédie of Yverdon is a set of fifty-eight in-quarto volumes published between 1770 and 1780. Building on the foundations laid by Diderot, the work aims to establish an ‘encyclopaedic system of knowledge’. It aims to give the encyclopaedia a European scope, considering the theoretical foundations of, and thus considerably enlarging, the human field of knowledge.

A EUROPEAN ENCYCLOPAEDIA

The director of the Encyclopédie was J.B. De Felice (1723-1789). This native Italian scholar had been living in Yverdon since 1762. He gathered together a European team of scientists and scholars, organised into three groups: the Swiss (canton of Vaud, Neuchâtel, Bern), the French (from mostly Paris and Grenoble) and the Berlin group. Jean Henri Samuel de Forney, permanent secretary of the Prussian Academy, and individual Italian and English scholars also collaborated on the project.

THE RENEWAL OF THE ENCYCLOPEDIC SYSTEM

Inspired by Diderot’s methodological rules, De Felice aimed to create a renewed ‘encyclopedic system of knowledge’. He classified knowledge according to strict hierarchies, and, with his Protestant collaborators, sought to re-establish the link between scientific knowledge and religion or spirituality. Under De Felice, the encyclopaedic system thus took on a wider scope, and legitimised the study of areas and fields impossible for Diderot.

NEW SOURCES OF KNOWLEDGE

The European network of collaborators enabled De Felice to tap unexploited sources of knowledge. These new sources correct, add, renew or replace the content of the Parisian Encyclopédie. The number of articles in Yverdon’s Encyclopédie is much greater than in the Parisian Encyclopédie, and the encyclopaedic nomenclature consequently increased.

EUROPEAN ENLIGHTENMENT, FRENCH ENLIGHTENMENT

Yverdon’s Encyclopédie is a monument to the European Enlightenment. Moreover, it is an important resource for analysing the reception of Diderot and d’Alembert’s Encyclopédie, that masterpiece of the French Enlightenment. Yverdon’s encyclopaedia is the essential complement to Diderot’s Encyclopédie and, as such, its fullest extension.

THE ELECTRONIC EDITION

This major electronic version presents the full text of the Encyclopédie with fine tagging. It gives the text in both original and modern written form. The edition contains the facsimile (image mode) of the entire Encyclopédie with an active link to the text mode. Alongside the powerful functions of the Babel software (search for words, table of concordance, searches using operators, dynamic index, multi-frame window display, search review, personal notes, download and print of the text, etc.), this edition offers new, advanced modes of research: typographical searches, material bibliography studies, field labels, inventory records for each article and each plate, and comparison tools with Diderot and d’Alembert’s Encyclopédie.

EDITOR

The online Encyclopédie of Yverdon is published by Claude Blum (Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne) in collaboration with a committee comprising:

- Alain Cernuschi, coordinator (University of Lausanne);
- Sylviane Albertan-Coppola (Valenciennes);
- Silvio Corsini (Lausanne);
- Kathleen H. Doig (Georgia State U./Atlanta);
- Jens Häseler (Potsdam);
- Étienne Hofmann (Lausanne);
- Hans-Jürgen Lüsebrink (Saarbrücken);
- Simone Zuburchen (Fribourg).

RESEARCH FIELDS

Humanities, history, history of books, and art, philosophy, theology, history of sciences.

With the participation of the De Felice Foundation
GRAND DICTIONNAIRE UNIVERSEL DU XIXᵉ SIÈCLE
PIERRE LAROUSSE

PIERRE LAROUSSE - THE GREAT UNIVERSAL DICTIONARY OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY

The most extensive biographical and analytical compendium for all topics related to the humanities

The digital edition of the seventeen volumes of the Grand dictionnaire universel (reprint of the Paris edition of 1866 – 1890), presented in text-image mode, is a library which contains 26,500 pages and 500,000,000 signs. It is the equivalent of thousands of books.

The Grand dictionnaire universel by Pierre Larousse remains the most extensive biographical, bibliographical, and analytical repertory on all topics related to the humanities. It is the only general reference work to offer such a detailed account of important individuals, and such in-depth, meticulous study of literary, musical, and artistic works.

CONTENTS

The Complete Universal Dictionary by Pierre Larousse is a veritable library, equivalent to several thousand books on the following subjects: French language; pronunciation; etymology; conjugation of irregular verb; grammatical rule; innumerable word-definitions and familiar or proverbial phrase; history; geography; solutions to historical question; biographies of key individuals, past and present; mytholog; physical science; mathematics and natural science; moral and political science; pseudo-science; inventions and discovery; literary types and character; heroes of epics and novel; political and social caricature; general bibliography; the fine art; analysis of works of art; anthologies of French, foreign, Latin, and mythological allusions.

RESEARCH FIELDS

French, history, geography, biography, mythology, bibliography, literature, art, sciences, etc
The bible for all libraries, bookshops, and bibliophiles

Of all universal bibliographies printed between the sixteenth and nineteenth centuries, the Manuel du libraire by Jacques-Charles Brunet (1780-1867) is the best known, and provides the definitive model. Published in five separate editions between 1810 and 1860, it is, as indicated by L.N. Malclès in his Sources du travail bibliographique, a ‘select, universal’ bibliography, a list of all works or of select works published in each country on every subject.

Brunet worked tirelessly on the famous Manuel du libraire for over sixty years, constantly perfecting it. It is a bibliography of highly esteemed works, whether from a textual or editorial point of view, in all languages and on all subjects, and from anywhere in the world, from the advent of printing onwards: the criteria sought by the learned bookseller were value, rarity, and perfection.

CONTENTS

This work is composed of:
- a Bibliographical Dictionary by author’s name or anonymous titles of 31,872 works (5 vols);
- a Methodical Table in which are classified all the books described and quoted in the Dictionary (1 vol.);
- a Dictionary of Ancient and Modern Geography, an indispensable guide to Latin place-names, with the varying forms up to modern times (1 vol.) and a Supplement to the Bibliographical Dictionary composed by P. Deschamps et G. Brunet which lists almost 10,000 new works (2 vols).

Three appendices regarding the history of printing and of the book between the fifteenth and seventeenth centuries:
1. Pamphlets on the Gothic works printed in Paris at the end of the fifteenth century and during some of the sixteenth century;
2. Alphabetical lists of printers and booksellers whose typographical trademarks are reproduced in the Manua;
3. Pamphlets on the authors printed in small format by Elzevier.

RESEARCH FIELDS

Bibliography, history of the book, literature, history, geography

EDITOR

Claude Blum, Professor at the University of Paris Sorbonne
Classiques Garnier Online offers online access to reference works. The database’s search engine allows for advanced searches of all works, selected parts or a specially constituted corpus. A summary is given of each work and a note for each author.

Research Fields

Literature, linguistic, humanities, lexicography, languages, history, philosophy, law, economic science, social sciences.

Contents of Classiques Garnier’s Collections and Presentation of the Complete Works:

www.classiques-garnier.com/editions

Non-exhaustive List

French Literature

Middle Ages

Recherches littéraires médiévales / Medieval Literary Research

under the direction of Alvaro Barbieri, Claudio Galderisi, Francis Gingras, Giovanni Palumbo, Richard Trachsler

The collection Recherches littéraires médiévales (Medieval Literary Research) publishes works on medieval culture which combine an original approach with research of a high scientific and intellectual quality. These works are intended for specialists but also for a wider public interested in literature and the medieval world; its interdisciplinary perspective is a vital part of the collection.

Savoirs médiévaux / Medieval Knowledge

under the direction of Robert Halleux

The collection Savoirs médiévaux (Medieval Knowledge) aims to go beyond traditional disciplinary distinctions between the history of science, technology, economics, law, or philosophy. From the seamstress to the theologian, from the coin expert to the jurist, this collection treats all systems of knowledge, engaging with their foundations, modifications, disappearances, and their movements, encounters, and cross-fertilizations with other systems. Works in this collection must meet a triple challenge: the rigorous use of source material, a well-defined research question, and accessibility to a wide public.

Textes littéraires du Moyen Âge / Literary Texts of the Middle Ages

under the direction of Richard Trachsler

The collection Textes littéraires du Moyen Âge (Literary Texts of the Middle Ages) presents authoritative critical editions of literary, historical, and philosophical texts. These editions provide new textual resources and give new perspectives on seminal texts, but also present works of which no satisfactory or accessible critical edition existed previously. Editions involving foreign languages (Latin, Italian, English, etc.) are accompanied by a translation. The French texts also provide a modern translation when deemed necessary.
RENAISSANCE

Bibliothèque de la Renaissance / Renaissance Library
under the direction of Mireille Huchon and François Boudaut
Scholarly volumes, syntheses, reference books, and classic secondary literature on both the French and European Renaissance; this is a modern-day encyclopaedia of knowledge and creativity during the Renaissance.

Études et essais sur la Renaissance / Studies and Essays on the Renaissance
under the direction of Mireille Huchon
A collection at the heart of modern debate and research on the Renaissance. With its multi-disciplinary approach, range of methodologies, and original perspectives, this collection is perfectly placed for polemical encounters, discoveries, re-evaluations, and innovation in all areas.

Études montaignistes / Montaigne Studies
under the direction of Claude Blum
Études montaignistes (Montaigne studies) is a reference collection devoted to the life and work of Montaigne. It covers the reception of Montaigne’s works from the sixteenth to the twentieth century, the conditions of its publication, and the literary, historical, and cultural context.

Géographies du monde / World Geographies
under the direction of Frank Leestringant
This collection of studies and documents considers geographical literature in its multiple and varied dimensions. Putting the travel account in its strictest sense to one side, the collection explores the arts, techniques, and myths which have successively modelled our image of the world for the past five centuries. The collection maps, spatially, our way of thinking about the history and diversity of cultures.

Textes de la Renaissance / Renaissance Texts
under the direction of Mireille Huchon
This collection groups together critical editions of all Renaissance publications in print and manuscript (complete works, rare, and unpublished texts) into a coherent series. These editions are meticulously researched and presented, and include detailed notes on cultural and historical context, while taking the latest research into account.

Colloques, congrès et conférences sur la Renaissance européenne / Conferences, Congresses, Colloquia on the European Renaissance
under the direction of Claude Blum
The collection Colloques, congrès et conférences sur la Renaissance européenne (Conferences, Congresses, Colloquia on the European Renaissance) publishes collected volumes and conference or colloquia proceedings, covering all aspects of the European Renaissance: literary, historical, philosophical.

17th CENTURY

Lire le xviié siècle / Read the Seventeenth Century
under the direction of Delphine Denis and Christian Biet
The title of this collection says it all. To read means, first and foremost, to take both texts and contexts into account with a view to establishing a newly enriched and reconstituted corpus. It also means interpreting - as much in line with these new horizons as those of modernity - in order to give new life and meaning to works of the past. A privileged place will be given to innovative research and critical essays attentive to present-day preoccupations. Several series, directed by the most competent specialists, will sketch the contours of this investigation, focusing on novels, pastoral, tragedy, law, science, religion, music, free thought, utopias, mysticism, travel literature, etc. An enriched vision of the contrasts of the seventeenth century should emerge from these strong lines of enquiry.

Bibliothèque du xviié siècle / The Seventeenth-Century Library
under the direction of Delphine Denis and Christian Biet
Not restricted by a strictly-defined periodization, this collection aims to create as wide and rich a corpus as possible. It will publish scholarly editions of works of all genres, by both canonical and lesser-known authors, each produced with the necessary philological rigour. Alongside the original French texts, the collection will also present the efforts taken by translators to rival with their models, both ancient and modern.
18th century

L’Europe des Lumières / Enlightenment Europe
under the direction of Michel Delon and Jacques Berchtold
Between the so-called ‘crisis of conscience’ and the Revolution, French-language literature and thought flourished in a Europe entranced by new ideas and experimentations. This collection covers research from a variety of disciplines and employing a variety of methods which seeks to better understand the intellectual, scientific, artistic, and literary life of the eighteenth century, as well as the history of ideas and representations.

Bibliothèque du xviiie siècle / The Eighteenth-Century Library
under the direction of Pierre Frantz and Catriona Seth
The Bibliothèque du xviiie siècle (The Eighteenth-Century Library) offers reliable editions of Enlightenment works put together by highly-esteemed specialists. It includes well-known masterpieces as well as forgotten or even unpublished works, no matter the genre or original language. All readers can be sure of making fascinating discoveries.

19th century

Études romantiques et dix-neuviémistes / Studies on Romanticism and the Nineteenth Century
under the direction of Pierre Glaudes and Paolo Tortonese
The collection Études romantiques et dix-neuviémistes (Studies on Romanticism and the Nineteenth Century) publishes works on nineteenth-century French literature: essays, theses, monographs, works of synthesis, and scholarly studies. It welcomes all kinds of studies in literary criticism, history, and poetics, but gives priority to works which ally conceptual reflection with historical perspective, so that theory and history are no longer regarded as mutually exclusive. Aiming to publish international contributions and innovative studies, particularly those of young research-workers, the collection will have succeeded if these works are found to be enjoyable, intellectually ambitious, and historically exact.

Études rimbaldiennes / Rimbaud Studies
under the direction of Pierre Glaudes and Didier Alexandre
The collection Études rimbaldiennes (Rimbaud Studies) brings together research devoted to the poetry of Arthur Rimbaud. It offers philological research, interpretative readings, and analyses based on the reception of Rimbaud’s work and its status in literary history.

Bibliothèque du xixe siècle / The Nineteenth-Century Library
under the direction of Pierre Glaudes and Paolo Tortonese
All varieties of nineteenth-century writing are published in this collection: novels, essays, poetry, theatre, criticism, and history. In keeping with the traditional spirit of Classiques Garnier, the collection consists of erudite, philological editions which enable the modern reader, whether student or enthusiast, to have access to the literature and thought of the nineteenth century. The reader will find both recognised classics and lesser-known works to be discovered.

20th-21st centuries

Études de littérature des xxé et xxxe siècles / Studies on Literature of the Twentieth and Twenty-First Centuries
under the direction of Didier Alexandre
The collection Études de littérature des xxé et xxxe siècles (Studies on Literature of the Twentieth and the Twenty-First Centuries) publishes theses and essays devoted to particular authors, literary movements or literary questions. Literary theory occupies an important place in the collection, but it is not disassociated from the history of literature, genres, literary forms, ideas, and sensibilities. To inscribe a work in its social, historical, intellectual, and artistic context is to help us understand its production and poetics. In the alliance of scientific erudition and the intuition of internal textual analysis, these studies seek not so much to interpret a given work as to situate its specific character in a global literary history.

Bibliothèque de littérature du xxe siècle / Library of Twentieth-Century Literature
under the direction of Didier Alexandre
The Bibliothèque de littérature du xxe siècle (Library of Twentieth-Century Literature) publishes both recognised, established authors and others now neglected. Each scholarly edition is accompanied by a substantial body of annotations. The accent is put on documentation: erudition allows full contextualisation of the texts, whatever their nature; it allows the editor to make the work accessible to the modern reader and enables a fully historical knowledge of the literary production of the period in all its complexity.

EBOOK COLLECTIONS - CLASSIQUES GARNIER ONLINE BACKLIST

31
The collection Bibliothèque proustienne (The Proustian Library) brings together research texts dedicated to Marcel Proust, whether influential new theses or essays by well-established experts. The collection incorporates the results of both French and foreign research, and welcomes translations of foreign-language works.

TRANSVERSAL COLLECTIONS: FROM THE MIDDLE AGES TO THE TWENTY-FIRST CENTURY

Théorie de la littérature (Literary Theory) under the direction of Andrea Del Lungo

The collection Théorie de la littérature (Literary Theory) is open to a plurality of critical approaches. Taking a global perspective which goes beyond national literary frontiers, it affirms the modern tendency to combine theoretical and disciplinary approaches to the literary text and literary history.

Masculin-féminin dans l’Europe moderne (Masculine-Feminine in Modern Europe) under the direction of Colette Winn, Delphine Denis, Catriona Seth

The notion of gender, understood as the historical, social, and cultural construction of sexual identity, has become a vital concept for research on texts produced by modern society and the various values at stake in those texts. The collection Masculin-féminin dans l’Europe moderne (Masculine-Feminine in Modern Europe) is composed of scientific works (studies and critical editions) undertaking to approach literature from this perspective, and shedding historical light on contemporary questions, such as the construction of sexual identity and relations between sexes, the history of sexualities, and the study of gender as a field for the construction of sexual identities.

Bibliothèque du théâtre français (The Library of French Theatre) under the direction of Charles Mazouer

Respecting the scholarly standards required by Classiques Garnier in the field of critical editions, this collection presents a great cultural heritage: it aims to give the reader access to as great a number as possible of French theatrical works, from the Middle Ages to present times. It will thus offer, besides classic and well-known texts, others which are unjustly neglected or little-known, presented and annotated for the modern reader. As far as possible, the collection will offer the complete works of the dramatists, and at least a coherent collection of their works.

Correspondances et mémoires (Correspondences and Memoirs) under the direction of Delphine Denis, Catriona Seth, Pierre Glaudes, Didier Alexandre

The collection Correspondances et mémoires (Correspondences and Memoirs) publishes critical editions of correspondences, memoirs, and diaries from the Renaissance to the present day, composed by writers and artists as well as politicians, scholars, and ecclesiastics.

Littérature, histoire, politique (Literature, history, politics) under the direction of Catherine Coquio, Lucie Campos et Emmanuel Bouju

An interdisciplinary collection mindful of the relationship between literary writing and the political scene, history and historiography as seen across the centuries and in the world arena.

Esprit des lois, Esprit des lettres (Spirit of Laws, Spirit of Letters) under the direction of Bruno Méniel

The collection Spirit of Laws, Spirit of Letters is intended to accommodate books exploring the relationship between law and culture from a historical perspective.

COMPARATIVE LITERATURE

Perspectives comparatistes (Comparative Perspectives) under the direction of Bernard Franco and Véronique Gély

The collection Perspectives comparatistes (Comparative Perspectives) offers studies and essays on general and comparative literature which analyse relations and transfer between cultural areas (literature and art, literature and science) and which refine theoretical viewpoints on literary phenomena.

Littératures du monde (World Literatures) under the direction of Alain Montandon and Françoise Lavocat

The collection Littératures du monde (World Literatures) publishes the seminal texts of world literature, with bilingual versions for poetry and unilingual for prose. It offers the public new translations and scholarly publications, as well as original translations of great important in their day.
Linguistic, Lexicography, Language

Classiques de l’argot et du jargon / Classics of Slang and Jargon
under the direction of Denis Delaplace
Les Dictionnaires d’argot (Dictionaries of Slang) (called jargon before 1700, sometimes ‘green tongue’ after 1850) and works in which slang is a major feature are all too often unknown to researchers in literature, linguistics, and lexicography and all the more unfamiliar to the general public. The collection Classiques de l’argot et du jargon (Classics of Slang and Jargon), dealing with texts from the fifteenth to the twentieth century, allows access to these works by means of thorough critical editions with substantial commentary.

Histoire et évolution du français / The History and Development of French under the direction of Wendy Ayres-Bennett and Sophie Prévost
The collection The History and Development of French publishes books offering new perspectives on the diachrony (historical development) of French or early stages of the language.

History, Art History

Bibliothèque d’histoire médiévale / Library of Medieval History under the direction of Martin Aurell, Elisabeth Crouzet Pavan and Michel Sot
The collection Bibliothèque d’histoire médiévale (Library of Medieval History) publishes works by researchers of all ages who successfully link up-to-the-minute research questions, traditional erudition, and a high quality of writing. The collection aims at a global approach to historical problems and calls on interdisciplinary methods in order to cover all fields of historical knowledge from institutions to material culture, beliefs, and representations. Combining rigorous scholarship with a new approach to historical interrogation, the works in the collection Bibliothèque d’histoire médiévale (Library of Medieval History) aim to play their part in deepening our knowledge of the Middle Ages.

Les Méditerranées / The Mediterranean
under the direction of Pierre-Yves Beaurepaire
The collection Les Méditerranées (The Mediterranean) is inscribed in a long editorial tradition devoted to research on the Mediterranean, which it aims to renew. Embracing the broad time frame so dear to Fernand Braudel, and with a resolutely interdisciplinary spirit open to international research, the collection produces innovative research, collective works and critical editions of sources, praised by University juries.

Histoire des Techniques / History of Technics
under the direction of Anne-Françoise Garçon and André Grelon
The collection Histoire des Techniques (History of Technics) is interested in all past forms of design and the integration of technology into human societies. Combining approaches from anthropology, philosophy, archaeology, ethnology, and sociology, it provides the public with the sources and texts of research past and present, together with portraits of key figures in technology. Its ambition: to make tangible the history of practices and actions specific to humans, and the cultures that necessarily accompany this history.

Arts de la Renaissance européenne / Arts of the European Renaissance
under the direction of Frédéric Lemerle and Yves Pauwels
The renewal of the arts during the Renaissance is a crucial step in the history of western art. To illustrate this, Arts de la Renaissance européenne (Arts of the European Renaissance) brings together the published texts, monographs, and collective works that deal with all forms of artistic expression produced from the fifteenth to the mid-seventeenth centuries.

Philosophy

Les Anciens et les Modernes - Études de philosophie / The Ancients and the Moderns - Philosophical Studies
under the direction of Chantal Jaquet and Pierre-Marie Morel
The collection entitled Les Anciens et les Modernes - Études de philosophie (The Ancients and the Moderns - Philosophical Studies) will publish scholarly studies in the history of philosophy, from Antiquity to the modern period, and will reflect dynamic and enterprising research on authors, concepts, and the history of ideas. Works published in this collection are those destined to become major reference works in their field.
Histoire et philosophie des sciences / History and Philosophy of Sciences
under the direction of Bernard Joly and Vincent Jullien

The collection Histoire et philosophie des sciences (History and Philosophy of Sciences) includes scientifically demanding original works with a view to forming a reference collection without any methodological or philosophical bias.

Essais philosophiques sur Montaigne et son temps / Philosophical Essays on Montaigne and his Time
under the direction of Philippe Desan

Based on philosophical readings of Montaigne, this collection takes the foundations and expression of human knowledge as its focus. Montaigne's Essais are considered first in their own historical context, but also as a text in constant dialogue both with Montaigne's contemporaries and the modern philosophical tradition.

Politiques / Politics
under the direction of Bruno Bernardi and Christian Nadeau

Firmly wide-ranging, the Politiques collection welcomes current research in political philosophy. It will publish both works which renew thinking within contemporary perspectives, and works of conceptual history which consider how the structures we perceive the world through were formed.

Textes de philosophie / Philosophical Texts
under the direction of Pierre-François Moreau

The collection Textes de philosophie (Philosophical Texts) publishes both the great classics of the history of philosophy and less systematic works which act as precursors to, or discuss the implications of, a given system. This collection also features works which overlap with other fields in the history of ideas: science, law, politics, religious controversy, and aesthetics.

LAW

Bibliothèque de la pensée juridique / Library of Legal Thought
under the direction of Olivier Beaud and Jean-François Kervégan

The Bibliothèque de la pensée juridique (Library of Legal Thought) publishes philosophical studies of the law, which have either a historical dimension or a contemporary, systematic one, and which deal with the law in a reflexive manner. It also edits classic texts, and does not privilege any particular legal position.

ECONOMIC SCIENCE

Bibliothèque de l’économiste / Library of Economics
under the direction of André Tiran and Jean-Sébastien Lenfant

The Bibliothèque de l’économiste (Library of Economics) publishes high-quality theses and essays in economics that can be considered as reference works in their specific field. The aim is to constitute a stock of scholarly editions and reinvigorate not only analytical work in the field of the history of economics, but also essays touching on fundamental questions beyond contemporary preoccupations.

Écrits sur l’économie / Writings on Economy
under the direction of André Tiran

The collection Écrits sur l’économie (Writings on Economy) attempts to resurrect the major texts of economic science from the fourteenth to the twentieth century. The collection consists of scholarly editions, bilingual where necessary, with a system of notes and introductions essential for contextualisation.

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Bibliothèque des sciences sociales / Social Science Library
under the direction of Philippe Steiner and François Vatin

The purpose of this collection is to publish classic social science texts as well as original studies in the field, from the modern era until today. Breaking down traditional disciplinary boundaries, the collection welcomes works which have influenced development in this discipline.
RENCONTRES / DEBATES AND ENCOUNTERS

This collection welcomes works of collaborative research, conference proceedings, Festschrift, and works of synthesis in literature and the humanities.

DICTIOANRIES

DICTIONNAIRES ET SYNTHÈSES / DICTIONARIES AND SUMMARIES

This collection groups together reference works and accounts of an author or subject from the field of literature and the humanities in the form of dictionaries or summaries.

JOURNALS

BULLETIN DE LA SOCIÉTÉ INTERNATIONALE DES AMIS DE MONTAIGNE

The Bulletin is published twice a year and alternates specialist issues (proceedings, contributions on a specific topic) with issues for a broader reading public, welcoming individual contributions centred on the text of the Essays.

CAHIERS LA BOÉTIE

Les Cahiers La Boétie (La Boetie Notebooks) welcome interdisciplinary works (literature, history, humanities and social sciences) exploring all aspects and issues of La Boetie's work.

CAHIERS TRISTAN L'HERMITE

Founded in 1979, the Cahiers Tristan L'Hermite aims to shed light on the work of the famous poet, playwright, novelist, and prose writer, in the context both of his lifetime (1601-1655) and the broader culture of the first part of the seventeenth century.

CAHIERS MÉRIMÉE

This review, open to a great diversity of intellectual orientations and disciplines, was created with the ambition of broadening knowledge of Mérimée's works in their extraordinary cultural plurality.

PARADE SAVVAGE

Founded in 1984, the international magazine Parade sauvage works in a spirit of open-mindedness to bring together studies on all aspects of the work and life of Rimbaud (biography, history, semantics, philology, lexicography, and formal approaches).

ELFE XX-XXI

The Annual Review of the Society for the Study of Twentieth-Century French Literature, ELFe XX-XXI intends to consider the continuities and changes in the literature of the past century and to reflect on contemporary literature and the role that criticism should play in its legitimacy.

CAHIERS DE LEXICOLOGIE

The Cahiers de lexicologie, an international review of lexicology and lexicography, examines vocabulary in its relation to other aspects of language (syntax, semantics, morphology, phonology, and speech-analysis).

NELOGICA

Neologica, an international review concerned with neology, aims to fill a gap in the field of language-sciences which take only an episodic or indirect interest in this phenomenon vital to all languages.

LES CAHIERS DU DICTIONNAIRE

Les Cahiers du dictionnaire (The Journals of the Dictionary) are a place for reflection and encounters devoted to lexical access through the study of the dictionary, in which 'each word is a virtual universe which speech and writing update [...] into a unit of meaning' (Alain Rey).