

Introduction

This list offers a rich collection of early Academies of Science Publications in microfiche form. Many libraries will welcome this microfiche project, because the growing needs of new institutions and libraries have made these publications very scarce and expensive in their original form.

In the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries the publications of such academies held the same place as specialized scholarly and scientific journals do today. Many of the ideas and inventions of the great scholars of those days were first published in the Transactions or Memoirs of an Academy of Science. Such publications are not only a fundamental source for the history of science but also a goldmine for researchers in many other fields.
